ROGER Q. MILLS.

Interview With the Well Known Texas Congressman.

The Election and the House of Representatives.

His Opinion of the Probable Action of the Democrats of the Fifty-second Congress—He Favors Free Coinage and Free Trade, but Opposes the Sub-Treasury Bill—Views of '92.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Congressman Mills, who arrived in Washington late Saturday night, talked freely Sunday about the result of the late congressional elections and about the action of the next Democratic house of representatives. On the speakership question Mr. Mills is somewhat reticent, merely remarking that he has determined to retire from public life at the close of the next congress, and says that if he should be elected speaker he would feel that his twenty years of service in the house had been rewarded with the highest possible honors, but if he fails he will not lose an hour's rest.

Of the probable action of the Democratic majority in the next house Mr. Mills says: "The Democratic house in the Fifty-second congress will meet the demand for more money by passing a silver free coinage bill, which the senate may or may not agree to, and which, if it ever reaches the White House, will probably be vetoed by President Harrison. That is all the legislation which we shall attempt in that line. It is idle to talk of the sub-treasury bill. The Democratic party can never, as long as it exists, which will be as long as it is true to strict constitutional ideas, endorse such an unconstitutional scheme."

Mr. Mills, in his letter to the Free-Trade club, stated the principle of the Democratic party in one sentence. "The general government should do nothing for the state which the state can do for itself, and no government should do anything for the individual which he can do for himself." We ought never to get away from that doctrine. The Democratic party believes that the citizen is able to take care of himself and run his own business. We propose to let him do it, and keep as far away from paternalism as possible."

The theory have emphatically endorsed the position of the Democratic party on the tariff question. The people were willing to have the necessary protection afforded infant industries, but they could not understand the necessity for doing this by protection, or by industries which had been established 100 years. When the Democratic party has control of the house it will reduce the tariff on the necessities of life. Of course, the tariff will not pass a Republican congress. The Democratic party will force the issue on that line until we get the senate and president. If the Republican party persists in legislating against the common people and in favor of the trusts and combinations, the revolt will be still greater next time."

The race in '92.

Mr. Mills predicts the nomination of Cleveland by acclamation. He says that "in New York the cause of tariff reform has been precluded in every school house by hundreds of young and enthusiastic Democrats, who are consumed by their convictions and are not afraid of the devil. A great change is being wrought in that state, and the politicians will be unable to stem the rising tide." He regards Blaine as the strongest man on the Republican side, but admits that Harrison may manipulate the Federal machinery so as to secure a renomination. "If he does," said Mr. Mills, "he will go over the falls of Niagara as sure as fate."

BOOM FOR CARLISLE.

Congressman Cummings says he is the most available candidate for '92.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Congressman Cummings of New York, in an interview that Bill will get New York's vote in 1892, but he would like very much to see New York removed from the doubtful list and let the chief bone of contention between the two parties. And now that the late election sectionalism has disappeared as he thinks the prospects of the contest being taken out of New York are good.

Alfred H. Smith, the most worthy man that could be chosen, said he "a man who more than anybody else embodies the true Democratic doctrine on the tariff question, and moreover, a man of unblemished reputation, unquestioned integrity and high mental attainments." John F. Carlisle, I don't know that his name has been conspicuously mentioned, but that cuts no figure. There is plenty of time for that. His speech in the senate on the tariff was worthy of a leader. Carlisle says he heard in the elements that go to make up an honorable, able and popular statesman, and the country would have to look far and long before finding a more capable man."

Supplied with Quiver Staff.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 25.—Saturday morning, on complaint of Lou Bailey and two inmates of his establishment, the police arrested Ed. Green and William Jones, who had passed spurious dollars to each of the girls. When searched at the station several counterfeit coins were found on their clothing and upon a further search a bag filled full of the "quiver" was unearthed, consisting of coins from a dime to a dollar. They are evidently bold men, but novices in the business.

PEACE OR WAR.

Which Will Result from the Indian Messiah Craze?

Number of Hostiles Now Estimated at 600.

The Rosebud Indians, Heavily Armed and Defiant, Now Dancing the Ghost Dance. Chief American Horse Advises the Indians Not to Turn Against the Whites. The Scare May Blow Over.

HOSTILES INCREASING.

The Rosebud Indians Join the Pine Ridge Agency Ghost Dancers.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. Dak., Nov. 25.—The Rosebud Indians have at last joined the ghost dancers of Pine Ridge agency. They are heavily armed and defiant. It is now estimated that the hostiles are 600 strong. They are led by No Water, Big Road and Little Wound. They still refused to come to camp, although Monday was ration day. Some of the ghost dancers, however, are in camp. They have been here for some time. They are for the most part robed in white cloaks and leggings, and their faces are nearly concealed by their closely looking hoods. Red Star, one of their wildest men, was in camp Sunday night. He is a young fellow, who is dressed in store clothes, but he wears the eagle feathers of the Messiah and consequently will never die.

There'll Be a Running Fight.

When the military marches to break up the religious ceremonies of the savages, which will be done as soon as reinforcements come, there will be a running fight in the Bad Lands of Nebraska similar to the Modoc war, which proved disastrous to the army. The young bucks on White River seem determined to break loose from the old men and give the soldiers a chase. There are many spies in camp and in case of any aggressive move of the troops they would be ready to join their ponies to join their people. The attitude of the friendly Indians now camped here will probably depend largely on the success or failure of the hostiles. At present they profess great reverence for the United States government.

Good Advice from American Horse.

Saturday night Chief American Horse made a powerful speech to the Indians in the council house of the agency. He spoke earnestly and in a loud voice to his people. He begged them not to turn against the whites, he said, were as plentiful as leaves on the forest, and pointed out to them the folly of believing in the speedy appearance of Christ. The noble old warrior was followed by words, the chief of police.

The attitude of old Red Cloud and his son is still premonitory. Their camp is isolated from the rest of the Indian village. In an interview with an interpreter Sunday night, young Red Cloud said that he had danced but once in a ghost dance.

He said the Indians were simply holding a revival after a fashion of the whites; that they earnestly believed that Christ would soon appear, and that his people knew no reason why the troops should be here. Young Red Cloud, however, is a good old-hand liar, and little credence can be given his story. It is known that he has been one of the big men of the dance, and he is also the fellow who, so, days ago, cried out to his people to burn the agency buildings. He is also accused of stealing a wagonload of beef on the last issue day.

Something of a Scare.

Sunday night something of a scare prevailed. They have been going to a creek about half a mile from the post to water the horses. Along the creek since Saturday a village of ghost dancers' tipis has sprung up. Sunday evening the black troops mounted their horses with carbines loaded and cartridge belts in place. Then under command of a lieutenant, instead of the usual orderly sergeant, they slowly entered to the creek. After the horses had drank their fill the soldiers crossed into the Indian village.

The stampede that followed was almost instantaneous. Squaws and papooses ran screaming into the tipis while the bucks hastily mounted their ponies and fled to the hills. But the troops had not time to fire, in order to turn and go back to camp. This maneuver excited the village, which was soon re-peopled with Indians. This serves to show what view the commanding officers takes of the situation. He feels it well to rush to fight and sent his men out on a peaceful errand, fully prepared to war.

Nearly all the Indians who draw rations here are now encamped around the post. It is a part of the plan to reduce to zero the number of Indians to such of the Indians as refuse to give up the ghost dance. It may be that this will settle the matter without trouble and it may bring on a fight.

Special Agent Cooper thinks that any pretext may be seized upon. Dancing is dying out, but he is not sure whether it is treachery or obedience that is causing the cessation.

A number of Rosebud Indians are here without passes, and their presence bodes no good. All are unanimous in their assertions of good will, but they are carefully measuring the strength of the troops all the while.

Little Wound, one of the leaders of the ghost dance, has refused to come into the agency, saying that if the agent wanted to see him he must call at the Little Wound's tipis.

At present it is a toss-up between peace and war.

Latest from Pine Ridge.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 25.—The latest advices from Pine Ridge are to the effect that the Indians continue to bring in their squaws and children, which is taken as a sure sign by the army people that there will be no fighting at that point. Gen. Brooke wires that the band moving toward the Crow agency, which stampeded the settlers in north Wyoming, is that of Young-Man-A-Fraid-of-His-Horses, which is friendly and goes with a permit and under escort.

CANADIAN BLACKFEET.

Reported to Be Preparing to Go on the Warpath.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 25.—It was rumored here Saturday that the Canadian Blackfoot Indians, the most warlike tribes in the northwest, were preparing to go on the warpath.

Advices to the mounted police department here carry a different story.

They state that the Indians, though somewhat agitated, are not likely to give trouble in view of the prompt punishment they received five years ago on the occasion of the last outbreak. The police have strict orders to prevent American Indians from entering Canadian territory.

A WHITE MAN.

Fires Upon Some Negroes, and in the Resulting Fatalities is Killed.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25.—An Alexandria special says: Steve Warner, a white man, was killed, and Edmund Tolliver, colored, was mortally wounded at Chalant plantation, two miles below Leocombe, Saturday night. Warner was the aggressor, riding up to the Tollivers' cabin and firing at the inmates, hitting Edmund. Those in the cabin returned the fire and shot Warner dead. Dave and August Tolliver, brothers of the wounded man, have been arrested for the shooting.

Battling for Louisiana.

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 25.—The excitement in this city and parish, caused by the building in the Ninth ward, has been at fever heat for the past two or three days. In the meantime the officers of the law have been quietly collecting evidence upon which to base official action. This morning a colored man by the name of Duke Woods, who had been shot, came to town for protection, and was seen by Sheriff Slaughter and Judge Backner, and made an affidavit against some persons. He says he recognized who came to his house and shot him in the hand. Immediately after taking his affidavit warrants were issued by Judge Backner.

Louisville Cutting Adge.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 25.—Early Sunday morning a crowd of men were having a friendly half-drunk scuffle in a Baxter avenue saloon. James Roth, a Short Line switchman, was thrown by Tom Hissner, Roth became furious and rushed at Hissner with a razor. Paul Davis, a young friend of Hissner, stepped between them and received the first slash—a cut on the throat, which nearly severed the jugular. He fell unconscious and both rushed out of the saloon, leaving his throat from ear to ear. Roth Davis and Hissner will probably die. Roth escaped.

South Carolina Race Riot.

CHARLOTTE, S. C., Nov. 25.—There was a negro riot at Bishopville, Sumter county, Sunday, caused by the arrest of a disorderly negro. Troops have been ordered there. It appears that the trouble at Bishopville was more of a scare than anything else. It was caused by negroes resisting officers who were breaking up a fight Friday night. No body was killed. The sheriff is supported by a company of infantry, and further trouble is not possible.

P. T. Barnum Nears the End.

BROOKLYN, Conn., Nov. 25.—Notwithstanding reports to the contrary, P. T. Barnum is still a very sick man, and his condition excites the alarm of his family. Only his immediate friends are admitted to his presence, and they are pledged to keep secret the facts regarding his true state of health. It may be said with certainty that the old showman's days seem to be drawing to a close.

Disatisfied With Lord Salisbury.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Advices from Cape Colony state that the people and the newspapers are much disatisfied with Lord Salisbury for his virtual surrender to Portugal of the Minica country, in which British subjects were already negotiating with a view to settlement, it being claimed that the Minica country furnishes the only ready and feasible route from Mashonaland to the sea.

Furious Bull Stern.

DENVER, Nov. 25.—A special to The News from Albuquerque, N. M., says: Word has been received here from Seven Lakes, in the Gallinas mountains, Lincoln county, that four sheep herders were killed recently by a bull steer. Sixteen others and 1,600 head of sheep are missing. The messenger says that it was the severest fall storm in the mountains ever known.

Sunday Theaters in Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 25.—Sunday night performances were given in two of the theaters of this city Sunday night, these being the first instances of the kind in the history of Rhode Island. One of the theaters, the Westminster, proposes to keep up the custom of Sunday evening entertainments. Whether the authorities will interfere remains to be seen.

From Its Mother's Lap to Death.

PADUCAH, Ky., Nov. 25.—A 1-year-old child, C. E. Koper, was killed here in a shocking way. The mother, with friends, was going to the country in a wagon. In driving over a rut the child was jostled from its mother's lap and fell beneath a wheel. The child's head was crushed and its neck broken. Its death was instantaneous.

Smuggling on the St. Lawrence.

QUEBEC, Nov. 25.—The schooner Waterbury, with $20,000 of smuggled whisky on board, was seized in the river Sunday by custom officers. A number of other contraband vessels are reported in the river on the way up to this port, and will probably be all captured. This illicit trade has assumed large proportions.

Failed for Nearly $4,000,000.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—The United States Rolling Stock company, having a large plant at Hegewisch, has been placed in the hands of a receiver. The liabilities are given at $3,816,000, and the assets at $6,053,000.

Big Lumber Fire.

PLAQUEMINE, La., Nov. 25.—The Plaquemine Lumber and Improvement company's mill was burned Sunday afternoon. Five million shingles were also destroyed. The loss is very heavy.

Moonshining in California.

MARTINEZ, Cal., Nov. 25.—The Mount Diablo Vineyard company's winery and distillery at Clayton, were seized by deputy internal revenue collectors on Friday for illicit distilling.

Paroled Will Retire.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The Star, the leading Home Rule paper in England, says it has reliable information that Mr. Parnell will retire from the leadership of the Irish Nationalists.

The Jap Will Die by Electricity.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—In the Jugigo case, the supreme court of the United States affirmed the decision of the New York court that Jugigo be executed by electricity.

A KING DEAD.

Demise of William III of Holland Sunday Morning.

Princess Wilhelmine Helene Heir to the Throne.

Provisions Under Which She Will Be Allowed to Wear the Crown When She Arrives at Maturity—Meanwhile Queen Emma Will Undoubtedly Be Continued as Regent—She is Popular.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 25.—The King of Holland died at 6 o'clock Sunday morning. Saturday evening there was a sudden change for the worse in the king's condition, the symptoms being those of uremia. The queen was immediately sent for, and stayed at the bedside during the night. His affliction was softening of the brain, and he was unusually quiet and almost comatose, but at times displayed great mental excitement. The king's death severs from Holland the duchy of Luxembourg, which will probably become attached under the Duke of Nassau, to the empire of Germany.

The death of the King of Holland is for more than one reason an important political event.

Notwithstanding his notorious marital infidelities, Queen Emma showed the utmost tenderness toward her slowly dying husband.

Biographical.

William III, king of the Netherlands, was born on Feb. 19, 1817. He was the eldest son of King William I and Princess Anna Paulowna, daughter of Emperor Paul of Russia. King William received his education from private tutors and at the university of Leyden. He was married in 1839 to the Princess Sophie, who was the second daughter of King William I of Wurtemberg. At the death of his father in 1849 he succeeded to the throne. In 1871 his wife died, and in 1879 he was joined in second nuptials to Queen Emma, daughter of Prince George Victor, of Mecklenburg. The throne will now go to his only daughter by Queen Emma, Princess Wilhelmine Helene, only 10 years old. To have the right to wear the crown the prince, when she arrives at maturity, must marry a prince of the house of the Dutch states general. During the minority of the princess, Queen Emma will govern with the assistance of a council of regents.

According to the Salic law, the throne of the Netherlands belongs to the male line, and the throne of the Dutch states general, during the minority of the princess, Queen Emma will govern with the assistance of a council of regents.

The states general has been called to meet on Dec. 8.

AUGUST BELMONT DEAD.

The Great Banker Succumbs to a Cold Caught at the Horse Show.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—August Belmont died at 3 o'clock Monday morning. Mr. Belmont's banking house was closed and on the glass door was a notice of the banker's death. In the office itself nothing but business of the most pressing character was attended to. It was learned that Mr. Belmont's death resulted from a severe cold he contracted at the late horse show. If he had lived until the 8th of next month Mr. Belmont would have been 74 years old.

Biographical.

August Belmont was born in Alzoy, Germany, in 1816, where his father was a landholder and proprietor. He was educated in Frankfurt and for several years was in the employ of the Rothschilds in their banking house in that city and also in Naples. In 1837 he settled in New York and became agent of his former employers. A quarrel concerning a business deal, in which he was shot and badly for life. From 1841 till 1859 he was consul general at New York for the Austrian government, but, owing to the treatment received by Hungary from Austria, he resigned his office.

In 1853 he was appointed United States charge d'affaires at The Hague, and in 1854 became minister resident. He returned in 1858, having first negotiated a highly important consular convention for which, with other diplomatic services, he received the special thanks of the department at Washington. For many years he has resided in New York, where he engaged in banking. He was well known as a patron of art, and his collection of paintings is one of the finest in the city.

Mr. Belmont took much interest in politics. He was a delegate to the Democratic convention in 1860, and from that year until 1873 was the chairman of the National Democratic committee. For twenty years he was president of the American Jockey club, and he has long been a prominent member of the Union and other clubs of New York. He married a daughter of Commodore Matthew C. Perry, and was instrumental in erecting a bronze statue of him at Newport, R. I. His son, Perry, born in 1851, is a well known young man, and has been in congress. He graduated at Harvard.

Averaging a Murder a Week.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—George Brannan shot and killed Joseph Fouts Friday because Fouts would not pay a debt of $16 which he had been owing Brannan for some time. Both parties live on Caney creek, in this county, about seven miles from Pikesville. Brannan has not yet been captured, but a posse of determined citizens are in hot pursuit. This is the third murder that has occurred in this county within the last three weeks.

Corpse on the Track.

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Nov. 25.—Saturday night the remains of a half-witted girl were discovered lying on the railroad track at the edge of town. Her throat was cut from ear to ear, and indications are that she was outraged and then murdered. Her name could not be learned. Who the perpetrators of the heinous crime are is a mystery. Some sensational developments are expected.

Troops have been ordered to Hillsboro, S. C., to suppress a negro riot.
